

Guidelines for Determining When Residency Qualifications for Elected Office Must be Met

DE Reference Guide 0008 (Updated 07/2014)

These guidelines are for reference only. They are not to be construed as legal advice or representation. For any particular set of facts or circumstances, refer to the applicable state, federal law, and case law, and/or consult a private attorney before drawing any legal conclusions or relying upon this information.

RESIDENCY REQUIREMENTS – GENERAL OVERVIEW

- In general. Unless otherwise provided for constitutionally, legislatively or judicially, any residency requirement for an elected office must be met at the time of assuming office. (For example, the Governor must have resided in the state for 7 years by time of election. See s. 5, Art. IV, Fla. Const.)
- Oath. State law requires that all candidates at the time of qualifying subscribe to an oath (s. 99.021, F.S.) that they are qualified electors of their county. In order to be a qualified elector, one must be a resident of Florida and the county wherein he or she registers to vote. The oath also provides that the candidate is qualified for the office being sought. However, this oath is considered prospective in nature – it becomes effective at the time of assuming office, unless otherwise provided for constitutionally, legislatively or judicially. See Davis v. Crawford, 116 So. 41 (Fla. 1928); State v. Haskell, 72 So. 651 (Fla. 1916).
- Continuous residency. Any residency requirement for an office is a continuous one. Failure to maintain the residency throughout the term results in vacancy in office. See generally s. 3, Art. X, Fla. Const. and s. 114.01(1)(g), F.S. In absence of a statute, constitutional provision or municipal ordinance that establishes a residency requirement, failure to maintain residency alone does not trigger a vacancy in office. See AGO 75-113; AGO 88-11 (exception for redistricting).

- The following represent situations where the law addresses when residency requirements must be met for candidates and elected officials.
